

Donna Heiland

Donna Heiland is Vice President of the Teagle Foundation, which supports higher education nationally and is especially known for its work on student learning and assessment. Donna's work at Teagle draws on her experience as Director of Fellowship Programs at the American Council of Learned Societies, and as a faculty member at Vassar College, where she was Associate Professor of English. Her most recent publication is the essay collection Literary Study, Measurement, and the Sublime: Disciplinary Assessment (Teagle Foundation, 2011), which she co-edited with Laura J. Rosenthal and the assistance of Cheryl Ching, and to which she also contributed an essay.
