

Dave Hemenway

Dave Hemenway currently serves as the Director of Institutional Effectiveness for Charter Oak State College—Connecticut's public on-line college. He has had a number of positions at four and two year colleges as well as in the system office of a two-year community college system in Maryland and the system office of the Connecticut State University. Dave's professional interests are in providing useful information to help improve instructional programs and student success through the use of data.