

Suzanne Lovett

Suzanne Lovett is an Associate Professor of Psychology at Bowdoin College and the Faculty Liaison for Advising. She received her B.A. from Bowdoin College and her Ph.D. from Stanford. Her research interests are twofold. One area concerns children's folk theories of biology, psychology, and biopsychology. The other area comes out of her work with the New England Consortium on Assessment and Student Learning and concerns assessing academic and social engagement in college, especially how advising and students' conceptualization of their experiences and their decision-making relates to college success.
