

Louis Chin

Louis Chin is an Associate Professor at Bentley University, and has taught there since 1988. His first online synchronous course was in the early 1990's with a student in Germany. He has taught both totally online as well as hybrid courses where some of the classes, and students, attend in a classroom, while others are totally distance learners. Offerings have included both undergraduate and graduate courses.

His current online offerings include summer courses of Global Strategy, an undergraduate capstone general business course. This course has been extremely popular with international students, who freely contribute their diverse experiences to enrich the class discussion.
