

Phillip Knutel

Phillip Knutel is Executive Director of Academic Technology, the Library, and Online Learning and Assistant Professor of Information Design and Corporate Communication at Bentley University. He provides strategic direction regarding the use of information technology to further academic initiatives, and strives to create a culture of constant innovation. He oversees 36 staff, including those in academic technology, the library, media services, and academic administrative computing. Prior to joining Bentley in 1998, he received his Ph.D. in higher education from the University of Michigan, where he also served as Director of Academic Technology at the University of Michigan's Academic Outreach Program. He holds an Ed.M. from Harvard, and a B.S. magna cum laude from Vanderbilt, where he also served as president of his college student association.