

Alyssa Frank

Alyssa Frank is the Director of the William Schawbel '57 College Resource Center at the Boston Latin School. For five years she served as a Senior Assistant Director of Admission at Fordham University, where she worked with students from New England, reviewed more than 10,000 applications, and managed the collaboration between the Offices of Undergraduate Admission and Alumni Affairs and Development. Alyssa received a B.A. in Urban Studies from Barnard College and holds Masters Degrees from New York University in Hebrew and Judaic Studies and Public Administration. She is a member of NACAC, the National Association of College Admission Counseling; NEACAC, the New England Association of College Admission Counseling; and a graduate of the College Board's Enrollment Leadership Academy.