

Kate Gerbode-Grant

Kate Gerbode-Grant is Educational Manager for The College Board's higher education division. Prior to joining the College Board in October of 2014, Kate spent 10 years in college admissions between Newbury College and Loyola University New Orleans, with a short stint in executive search at Isaacson, Miller. She currently serves as a Chair-Elect for the NEACAC Annual Meeting & Conference, as well as a delegate for the organization. She received her bachelor's degree from Stonehill College in International Studies and French Language and her Master's degree in Higher Education Management at the University of Pennsylvania.