

Patricia Maguire Meservey

Patricia Maguire Meservey is President of Salem State University, MA. Prior to her position at Salem State, she was the Provost and Academic Vice President at Suffolk University and held several academic leadership positions at Northeastern University. Her community involvement includes chair of the board of directors for the Salem Partnership and the North Shore Alliance for Economic Development and board membership for BottomLine, North Shore Chamber of Commerce, New England Council, and trustee for Eastern Bank. Statewide, she serves as a member of the Partnership to Advance Collaboration & Efficiency and has served on the Special Commission Relative to Higher Education in State Tuition Retention, the Task Force on Collaboration & Efficiency, the Nursing Initiative Advisory Committee, and the Working Group on Student Learner Outcomes & Assessment. Dr. Meservey is a Fellow in the American Academy of Nursing. She holds a Ph.D. in higher education administration from Boston College, an M.S. in parent-child health nursing and a B.S. in nursing, both from Boston University, and a diploma in nursing from Faulkner Hospital.