

Kassandra Spanos Ardinger

Kassandra Spanos Ardinger, public member of the CIHE from New Hampshire, has served on the Board of Education in Concord, NH for the past 8 years and served as its President for 5 years, during which time the school district constructed 3 new, state-of-the-art public elementary schools. In recognition of her leadership role in the planning and implementation of this city-wide building project, she was named a “Champion for Children” by the New Hampshire School Administrators Association. A mother of three, Kass has served on a variety of public service volunteer boards in New Hampshire and was a founder of HEAR In New Hampshire, a school for deaf and hard of hearing children. Kass has a B.A. from Dartmouth College and a J.D. from George Washington University.