

M. Fran Bisselle

M. Fran Bisselle has served as Head of Maple Street School since 2007. Before her tenure there, she completed a four-year doctoral fellowship and taught in the education department at the University of Vermont. In addition, she worked at Camp Dudley as a consultant and directed the founding of Camp Dudley at Kiniya, a girl's camp. Dr. Bisselle began her career at the Taft School in Connecticut where she was a dean, teacher, coach and dorm parent for nine years. Her leadership roles include participating in the Klingenstein Head of School Fellowship program in 2009, and serving on the NEASC Commission on Independent Schools since 2010. She has been a longtime member of VISA, the Vermont Independent School Association, and was recently elected by her independent school peers to serve as President. She also serves on the board of trustees for the NAIS.
