

David P. Angel

David Angel is the ninth president of Clark University, an innovative liberal arts-based research university in Worcester, Massachusetts. Embodying the Clark motto—Challenge convention. Change our world—Dr. Angel is spearheading initiatives to advance liberal education, promote cutting-edge research, and expand community partnerships. Under his leadership, Clark University has boldly rethought its undergraduate curriculum, introducing LEEP (Liberal Education and Effective Practice) as a distinctive program that prepares students with the intellectual and practical experiences required to address complex challenges in a rapidly changing world. With a B.A. degree from Cambridge University and a Ph.D. from UCLA, Dr. Angel joined the Clark faculty in September 1987 and holds an academic appointment as Professor of Geography, specializing in economic geography. He served as Clark’s Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs from 2003 to 2010, and Associate Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies and Research from 1997 to 2002.
