

Jessie Butash

Jessie Butash is an Assistant Principal of Teaching and Learning at Cumberland High School and a board member of the Rhode Island Instructional Leadership Academy, the professional development arm of RI Association of School Principals. Butash currently participates in a state-wide PLC around personalization and is part of a team of FUSE fellows working with the Highlander Institute to accelerate Blended Learning in RI. She is a trained facilitator of “Leading Blended Learning”, a course for principals developed by the Friday Institute, an organization that focuses on advancing education through innovative teaching, learning, and leadership.