

Laura Wenk

Laura Wenk is the Dean of Curriculum and Assessment and an Associate Professor of Cognition and Education at Hampshire College. She directs an interdisciplinary research project on campus, the Hampshire Learning Project. The qualitative data from this study is a part of her program of assessment for program improvement. Among other issues, Laura has been examining the role of narrative evaluation and self-reflection on students' educational pathways.

She has written about the Hampshire College curriculum, Hampshire College's Division III – To Know is Not Enough (2013) Peer Review 15(4) 8-11 and (2013) Multiple Routes, Alternative Learning Experiences in DeVitis, Joseph L. (ed.). Laura received her B.S. in plant pathology from Rutgers University, her M.S. in Botany, MEd in secondary science education, and EdD in curriculum studies all from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.