

Charles Ansell

Charles Ansell is the Chief Financial Officer and head of Strategic Planning for the Community College System of New Hampshire, where he presently leads information technology, data and analytics, finance, and student success efforts for the state system, including its work in data, analytics, and compliance reporting. Prior to this, Charles was Senior Associate Vice Chancellor Strategy and Academic Governance at the City Colleges of Chicago, where he oversaw progress on student success outcomes, including specific measures pertaining to graduation rate, completion, and post-completion success. Charles has worked in strategy, information technology, and journalism. He holds a Master's of Science in Business Information Technology from DePaul University and a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Carleton College.