

Judith Eaton

Judith Eaton is president of the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA), the largest institutional higher education membership organization in the United States. A national advocate and institutional voice for selfregulation of academic quality through accreditation, CHEA is an association of 3,000 degree-granting colleges and universities. The Council works with the presidents and chief academic officers of colleges and universities, accreditors, policymakers and higher education leaders around the world, providing authoritative information and leadership on issues related to accreditation and quality assurance, the federal government– accreditation relationship and enhancing public confidence in accreditation. Prior to her work at CHEA, Dr. Eaton served as chancellor of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities and president of the Council for Aid to Education. She currently serves on a range of boards and has authored numerous books and articles on higher education and accreditation topics.